Teacher: Josh Doig

Sunday, May 26 11:00am – 12:30pm

Globe Theatre Meet on the 4th Floor

Pay-What-You-Can

ABOUT CLASS

This workshop will focus on creating movement through choreographic exercises. We will be discovering and researching new ways our bodies can move in hopes to implement these tactics into contemporary choreography.

ABOUT JOSH

Josh is a graduate of Ryerson University's BFA Performance Dance Program. Since graduating Josh has pursued a career in Musical Theatre performing across Canada. He spent three summers with the Charlottetown Festival on Prince Edward Island performing in Anne of Green Gables, Canada ROCKS, Alice Through the Looking Glass, and Mamma Mia. Josh has also performed at Stage West Calgary in Rock of Ages and here at The Globe Theatre in Shrek The Musical. Most recently Josh originated the role of Pavlo in the world premiere of the new Canadian musical Kamp at Neptune Theatre in Halifax. In addition to performing, Josh has a passion for teaching. He continues to choreograph at dance studios across Ontario inspiring dancers from beginner to advanced levels. This past summer Josh was part of Hamilton's Theatre Aquarius Summer Youth Performance Program as well as head councillor and organizer of Ryerson University's Triple Threat Teens Camp. Josh enjoys every opportunity to dissect the creative process through movement and the human body.
